January brings many things, usually happiness and joy for the new year. But this past January brought pain and sorrow. Cory Mills, a 1989 graduate, lost his life in a train-car accident on January 13, 1990.

As a junior high and high school student, Cory was very active in athletics and academics. He attended Boys' State and was captain of the football and track teams. He was also active in the Math Club. As a senior, Cory escorted homecoming attendant Kelly Roberts. Cory was on the wrestling team and the junior high basketball team. As a freshman, Cory received the Greg Conine Award for being an outstanding athlete. In 1990, he was named an honorary member of the National Honor Society, posthumously.

In memory, the graduating class of 1989 established the Cory Mills Award to be given annually to an outstanding senior athlete.

Another Brick

By Shawn Wilkinson

This year our theme was designed by Randy Gazarek and John Gerdeman. "Another Brick" reflects the way we have grown up together, shared good times and bad, and became the best of friends.

When we first entered kindergarten in 1977, we were all frightened kids, terrified of the other children. We had no idea that we were laying our first brick for a future of friendship.

After mastering the elementary school, we moved on to the dreaded high school. We learned very quickly that we were the lowest on the totem pole. But, together we made it through junior high and that awful freshman year. We also got through boyfriend/girlfriend heartaches, little fights among ourselves, and of course, puberty.

As our senior year began, we looked upon each other as close friends. After all that time together, we built a wall of friendship that will surround us forever.

On June 10, the class of 1990 added the final brick and said goodbye to 13 years of friendship.

Peace And Love On A Far-Out Day

By Randy Gazarek

During Spirit Week the groovy students donned their far-out rags as they took part in Woodstock Day. They dusted off their parents' sandals and washed up their bell bottoms to celebrate the righteous revival of that historical event. For that one day the girls decided to ban their bras and let it all hang out. They decided to live in peace and harmony. Peace, joy, and love filled the hallways of their psychedelic domain that they previously called "the school." They all kept the faith in memory of how it was then and how it should always be.

It's Your Own Thing

By R. Gazarek and Shawn Wilkinson

From bell bottoms to Jordache jeans, sandals to Reeboks, and long braids to hair towers, the students recovered from Woodstock Day and slid back into their bras (well, at least some of them did) as they stepped back into the high world of fashion.

But who's to say what fashion is? Fashion is what you make it. Everyone has his own idea of what style is. Some are conservative, some are mild, some are fancy and some are wild. The point is, everyone is different in some way and clothes may show it. Don't be afraid to be different; do what you want to do. Don't feel compelled to follow trends and fads of everyone else because fads and trends are for the weak. Trends are for people who are afraid to be themselves. Get some courage, you wimps! Break away from these trends; be free to be who you want to be.

Student Elected to Board

By Andi Baltz

Senior Garry Wymer joined the North Baltimore High School Board of Education as one of their newest members on January 15.

Wymer said being elected to the board was everything he expected. A few major decisions he had to make early in his term involved the renovation of the science laboratories, new policy changes, and the fourth year English credit that will be in effect next year. As a board member, Garry served on the Advisory Council, which is in charge of helping to encourage positive attitudes around school and improve the morale of the teachers. He also worked on the legislative liaison.

Garry's future plans are slightly undecided, but he would like to run for board again or run for a city/council office.

A Tribute to Five Seniors

We would like to commend Andi, Andy, Jacci, Jan, and Nikki who were the foundation of girls' athletics during their high school years.

Your major accomplishments have included the following: 1988 Sectional basketball champs; 12th in state in the 3200 run (Andi); 1989 MAL track champs; Sectional volleyball champs; MAL basketball champs; 1990 MAL runner-up (track). We feel you always gave 110% and you never let us down. You always made us proud. May your lives be filled with much success and happiness.

NOTE: The above message was sponsored by Kole and Brenda Sterling, Jay and Deb Baltz, Chuck and Sandy Harden, Harold and Sherry Bower, Bob and Linda Reichenbach, Colleen Sterling, and Betty Baltz.

The In Betweens

Junior High. The in-between years of education. Not only is your life changing, your body is too. You have to learn to deal with a lot more situations. How to act, what image to make, the dances, and your first zit.

It's time for the girls to begin worrying about hair, make-up, and clothes. The guys, well, their vanity years won't show up for a little while yet, but the need to demonstrate their masculinity is definitely evident, especially with their voices changing.

Academics makes a big turn around also. There's a bell schedule to follow, a locker to find and a new room for each class. No wonder they are somewhat disoriented at times.
