

Bill and Adam, "Men at work." Philip shows us his pearly whites! Class Officers: President-Mary Kerr; V. President-Rhonda Thomas; Treasurer-Chris Baltz; Secretary—Rob Green. Joe Gerdeman and Gary Riechard show us their enthusiasm about being in school. Holly Patterson asks, "Who me?"

Jerry Johnson, Mike Sesok and Ryan Baltz put their heads together. Kristi King, "The head of her class".

At the Bottom

It's your first year in high school. How does it feel to be a freshman? According to Rajah Sisk, "It doesn't feel that much different." But Tim Gibson disagrees. He says, "It's different because when we were in fourth or fifth grade at Powell we were at the top. Then we started high school at the bottom." But remember, you'll be sophomores next year!

Sassy Sophomares

Peggy Jordan and Brenda King find great pleasure in dissecting a worm. It's a bird! It's a plane! No, it's only Steve Cole. Corrina Solly studying. Trick photography, right?

Tony Garcia shows his "Suzie Homemaker" techniques. Lucy takes time out of Mrs. C's class to join us.

Misty Roberts and Tiffenee Nigh look dazed. Below, Jeff Kuhlman, Kristy Roberts, and Shelley Gonyer should listen to the teacher.

New Experiences

Mr. Golish, sophomore advisor, loves this extra activity. This being his first year here, it gives him a chance to get acquainted with students he normally wouldn't see.
"Being sophomore advisor is a good way to learn about the history of the school and what is happening now because this class is part of the history as well as the future," he said.

Advisors' Woes

Being junior class advisor involves skills no college on earth could prepare you for, such as: popping popcorn in a broken-down machine, supervising 50 students who behave like kids, and running a concession stand for 42 athletic events. Also, as advisors, Carol Reed and Barb Christman were in charge of selling 600 t-shirts, making prom tickets, and meeting with the prom committee.

Goodbye

By Jacci Harden
This is it
Our last year here
For some it brings joy
For others a tear.
We've spent twelve memorable years here
And this will be our last
But little did we know
It would go by us so fast.
Maybe we should have cared more
About all the things we did
But I guess taking things for granted
Is just part of being a kid.
One day we'll all look back
And long for our high school days.
We'll wish for the carefree lives we had
Before we all went our separate ways.

Seniar class wicles

1, RANDY GAZAREK, being of little mind and worn, abused body, will to my good friends Aaron Patterson and Donnie Stemen, the ability to travel down that "highway to hell" and still manage to find an exit ramp off of it. Stay on the right road and avoid those detours. Prov. (15:24).
1, LISA VOGFISONG, will to Troy Trumbull all my love through the rest of high school and all the years after. 1, SHAWN WILKINSON, will to Chris Baltz the ability to be mean, rotten, evil, and to be the "bad seed" in all of Mr. Lang's classes. The responsibility is now yours; make him SUFFER!

1. TINA HILIARD, being of sleepy mind and run-down body, will the ability to fall asleep in government to anyone who thinks he can do it and get away with it. I, TINA NIGH, being of most intelligent mind and no body, leave the ability to find out as much gossip as possible to anybody who can do it.
1, BUTCH CARLES, will my power to make it to school in the morning to Donnie Stemen.
1, JASON CHAPMAN, will to any upcoming senior, the ebility to annoy teachers by low test grades and still come out on top. Long live the intellectual.
I, APRIL SHUPE, of wasted mind and great body, leave my ability to belch in class to lisa Baney
1, TONY SMITH, being of a tnind, and strong body, will the ' 91 football team the ability to play as a team and to win more games than the year before. Also, to throw half as many interceptions. \}, JOE KEPLING, being of tormented mind, and overpowering body, will to Matt Wymer my outgoing ability to sit the bench in basketball and to carry on my naturallytrade abilities of relief.
I GARRY WYMER, of sound thind and complex body, will to Mr. Lang to try with your best ability to be the perfect friend and neighbor. I, JAN REICHENBACH, being of demented mind and arthritic body, will my ability to clap loud and be obnoxious, giving everyone headaches, to anyone who thinks they can disturb as many people as I have with this "talent." GOOD LUCKI!
I, BRIAN REEVES, being of scrupulous inclination and robust physique, bequest my scholastic and musical dexterity to Brad Houdashelt. I, JACCI HARDEN, being of intellectual mind and short body, will to my dear cousin, Chris Boggs, my amazing height to help out in sports (every little bit counts).
1, IOHN GERDEMAN, will my great sense of humor and criticizing of persons to my brother Jason. Long live the Fighting Irish!!
WE, "THE REACCURING ZITS," will the ability to any senior girls who can torment Mr. Lang as much as we have through the years. See ya next year, Mr. Lang!!
I, JENNY SHULTZ, being of absent mind and well
body, leave to the high school choir the ability to torment Mrs. G. and to play as many practical jokes on her as possible and to top our class's famous birthday jokell
, ERIN CURRENT, challenge anyone who thinks he is tough to take one of Mr. Bame's classes or study halls or Mrs. Darnall's Anatomy and Physiology class.
I, JODI WILLIAMS, being of overworked mind and undersexed body, will to Lisa Baney the courage and ability to have the tallest hair in the school. Long live "hair tower."
1, MIKE SWOPE, being of admired mind and lusted-after body, will to Adam Wymer the ability to waste all of the "petro" he can on the weekends (in his ' 87 Monte Carlo SS) and, like me, still have the time to be PERFECTI!

Senioritis Strikes Class of '90

By Jan Reichenbach Senioritis. Ever heard of it? Well, let me explain. No, it isn't a disease. It is a term used to explain the laziness of seniors anxiously awaiting to graduate from high school. Not every senior gets senioritis, but the majority of us do. You're probably wondering what the symptoms are or how soon it sets in.

Senioritis varies from student to student, but most of the symptoms are the same: waiting until the last minute to do homework, not wanting to study, being too tired to look at a single book. There are many other symptoms but they aren't as noticeable. It usually sets in about two weeks after school begins. For some seniors, though, it usually begins the first day of the senior year or even during the summer of that year.

Looking at a few of the symptoms, you may not think this is a big deal. If you wait until the last minute to do your homework or study for a test, your chances of getting a decent grade on that particular assignment aren't too good. Many seniors do this and end up not passing a required class, and not graduating. But remember, it may not be too big of a deal!

Why does this happen to seniors? Well, we've been coming to school for approximately thirteen years, getting up early to get ready, going though the same daily routine. After many years of doing the same thing, a person gets tired of it and is ready for a change. We've made friends, learned new things, and met many challenges, so we are now ready to start something new.

Senioritis gets worse as the days pass by and graduation comes closer. When spring begins, seniors look forward to summer. One thing we don't look forward to is trudging to school with our backpacks loaded with heavy books. We would rather be outside in the sunshine, playing ball or soaking up some rays. Most students wouldn't mind doing this, but for us, it is more important. After all, it is our last year in high school.

So, to all seniors suffering from senioritis (you know who you are), force yourself to do assignments, have a great senior year, but don't slough off too much or you may be back for another year.

New Decade, New Principal, New Counselor
By Andi Baltz

Two new employees joined the North Baltimore High School school system in 1989. Don King, who was the principal at Powell Elementary in 1989, filled the high school principal's position, replacing Greg Hanson. Since former guidance counselor William Bibler retired last year, Glenn Christiansen assumed his duties.

Christiansen was a former athletic director at Patrick Henry High School. During his first year ${ }^{\circ}$ as guidance counselor, he tried some new ideas. Rather than hold arena scheduling for the 199091 school year, Christiansen counseled students individually. He stated, "It is more efficient and this way I can talk to each student individually." By doing this Christiansen found out what classes the students might need to graduate. "It worked out better than I expected," he admits.

Although the positions of athletic director and guidance counselor are totally two different jobs which take up a lot of time and work, Christiansen has enjoyed both jobs very much.

New principal King transferred from Powell Blementary to high school principal where he assumed more responsibility and became involved in extra-curricular activities. "Personally, I think there have been good strides made," stated King. The atmosphere in the building is positive, and the students are adapting to new policies very well, according to King.

Building pride among the students was a major goal for the new principal. King wishes good luck to the seniors and hopes to have an even better school year in 1990-91.

King and Christiansen agree the attitudes of the students have changed for the better. The spirit has improved from the beginning of the school year as well.
... From the handbook
All clothing must be clean and in good repair at all times. Students are required to wear proper undergarments. No bare feet, clothing containing inappropriate slogans, pictures, advertisements, no tank tops, and no see through or bare midriff blouses or shirts.

So Long, Marge

By: Andi Baltz
Secretary to the superintendent Marge Sibler announced her retirement this year. Bibler finished up her twenty-first year with North Baltimore schools.

She started her job as a secretary to the superintendent in 1969.

Bibler worked under four superintendents: James Dean, Henry Zaborniak, William Smith, and Ken Cline.

Bibler will join her husband Bill, former guidance counselor, who retired in 1989.

Office Workers: Jenny Bowers, Andy Bower, Peggy Jordan, Shawn Wilkinson, Jacci Harden, Jan Reichenbach, Nikki Wymer, Corrina Solly, Amy Bauer, Joe Kepling, Mike Swope, Kim Bretz, and Lisa Vogelsong.
