We're So POOR We Can't PAY Attention

Many students at N.B. have jobs. One of them is Mike Swope. Mike is a senior who works at the North Baltimore Food Center. He has been employed there for two years. Mike's job is a very busy one. He does everything from mopping floors to unloading trucks. After graduation Mike plans on turning in his two-week notice so he can move on to bigger and better things.

Mike Swope and Marcia Schurger are "checkin' out" Food Center. Tony Smith has a Mac Attack. Pam Rader, Kim Althausen take McOrders.

What's In/What's Out

The Monday Blues

By Jan Reichenbach

Let's face it. Everyone seems to be blue on Monday. After all, who wants to rise out of bed early Monday morning and go to school? This is what you call the Monday blues. After a relaxing weekend of doing nothing but maybe a few chores around the house, no one wants to go back to school. The reason for this is that Mondays seem to last forever and can be quite boring.

It would be nice to have all Mondays be national holidays; therefore, no one has to do anything but relax. We could call this "National Blues Day" and have no school on Monday. "National Blues Day" may not become a reality, but wouldn't it be great to sleep in on Monday mornings?

Top Salespersons

The Tiger Staff of 1990 sold more ads than any group in the past five years. Top salespersons were Shawn Wilkinson and Jaci Harden who sold ten out-of-town ads. Thanks to the staff of '90 for working so hard.
