Jessie Gazarek enjoyed the new coaches who helped her learn better techniques, which helped make track a lot of fun this year.

Corey North felt some relief as he cleared another hurdle knowing there were only two hurdles left to jump before he crossed the finish line.

The Varsity Baseball season ended with a record of 11-13 overall and 4-6 in the MAL.

Coach Humpy Flores talked about some of the major highlights from the 2005 baseball season. He stated, "Tyler Boyer and Tyler Krassow made some awesome plays on defense. Zach Cole, Wade Ishmael, James Chaffin, and Cory Herr all made difficult plays as well. Matt Woodruff laid down a perfect sacrifice bunt in the sectional finals and Eric McEwen had a clutch base hit. Lee Baltz at Seneca East had a behind the bag stop and throw out. Cory Herr pitched a no-hitter in the last game of the season. To me, good solid defense is the beauty of the game, which we were able to accomplish at times.

"As a coach, I'd remind them of what they did wrong without being too hard on them. After the Hopewell game, I decided to let them play and correct their own mistakes and make changes when needed. It's very gratifying as a coach when they can tell you what they did wrong, and how to fix it."

"What I remember most about last season was all the close losses. I looked into the boys' eyes after a tough loss, and knew that they gave us everything they had and still lost. It left a bitter taste in my mouth. We had a lot of laughs, and we had some tears. Overall, the best moment was when they looked in my eyes, shook my hand like a man and said, "Thanks coach".

Coach Ted Fransico made some comments about this season as well. He stated, "We beat some very good teams, hit the ball well, and minimized the number of errors from last year.

Zach Cole throws in a hard fast ball.

Some of the young pitchers stepped up and pitched very well.

"I had a lot of fun with the kids. They're a very young team. If they stay together they will have a good future ahead of them."

Lee Baltz bends down to get the tag out at third base.

James Chaffin takes a swing at the ball with a base hit in mind.

Wade Ishmael slides into home scoring for the Tigers.

Joel Foor takes a big swing for the Tigers.

"My favorite part of the season was hanging out with my teammates and having fun at the games and at practice.

My advice to the underclassmen is to just keep working hard at things and good things will happen for you. I felt we did well and kept ourselves in all of the games."

Lee Baltz

Ryan Boyer

"My most memorable moment would be when I hit two homeruns in the game against Seneca East. I think the biggest accomplishment made by our team was when we cut down on the errors. My advice to the underclassmen would be to not laugh when coach is trying to be serious."

"My favorite part of the season was playing on local tv at our sectional game, getting the game tying hit, and the go ahead run. My advice to the underclassmen would be to hang in there, and when the Humpster gets mad shake it off get back out there and never give up."

From a new coaching staff to starting a Junior Varsity team, the softball program underwent many changes. Jake Trevino and Seth Gilman were new faces to the softball coaching staff, joining Assistant Coach Dave King. The three coaches worked hard to help the girls to their 14-12 season (7-3 MAL) and were Sectional Champs beating the Van Buren Knights in a close 5-4 victory. The Lady Tigers had five All-League selections as well as four All-District picks. # "OUR TOWN"

BY: THORNTON WILDER

Things weren't looking good for the drama club this year when their director, Mr. Beebee quit. No one was certain whether there would even be time to put on a spring production. But thanks to the help of Mrs. Wronkovich-Clark and Mr. Kozina, the drama club got to perform the play "Our Town" by Thornton Wilder. This play was not like anything this year's cast had performed before. The writer of the play did not think that props were necessary, so the only props used were things like chairs and tables. The setting of the play takes place in a little town called Grover's Corners, where everyone knows everyone. Throughout the play the Stage Manager, (Libby Julien) can go back in time, or stop whatever is happening. She helps explain to the audience exactly what is going on. The play is separated into three acts. The first act is "Daily Life". This act shows a typical day in Grover's Corners and shows the audience the way life was for the people who lived there. The second act is "Love and Marriage". In this act Emily (Caitria Clark) and George (Drew Dewulf) fall in love and get married. The third act is "Death". In this act Emily is dead, and decides to travel back into time so she can be with her family again. But she soon realizes that doing this was a mistake. The play sends out a strong message about how easy it is to take life for granted.

Libby Julien took on a tough roll as the Stage Manager. In the picture shown above, she takes a small break from memorizing her countless number of lines just long enough to pose for the camera.

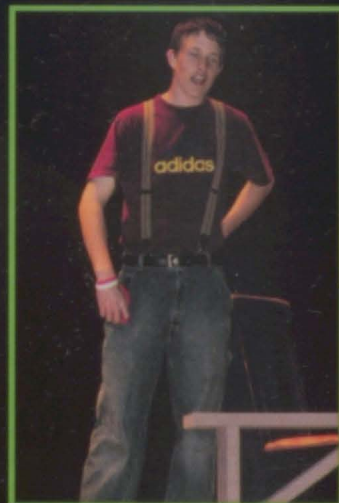

As Constable Warren, Jenna Swartz tells the story of the "polish fella who darn near froze to death".

The cast and crew of "Our Town" gather together for a group picture after they put on a performance for the elementary students on Friday afternoon.

Caitria Clark (Emily Webb) sits down to join April Julien (Mrs. Webb), her mother. They have an interesting mother-daughter conversation where Emily asks whether or not she is pretty enough to get any guy she wants.

April Julien, Eric Phillips, Kali Findley, and Brock Lincoln show their emotions while standing under their umbrellas during the funeral held for Emily Webb, who dies in the play due to pregnancy problems.

Flipping through the towns newspaper the "Sentinel," is Eric Phillips, who played the role of Doc. Gibbs.

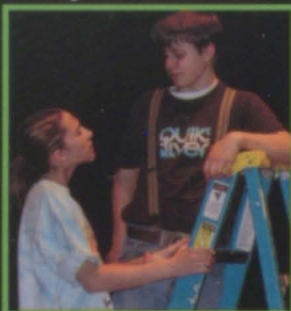

Drew Dewulf (George Gibbs) is in a hurry to go and see his bride-to-be. He can't believe his wedding day has finally arrived.

Larissa Wymer, who played the part of Mrs. Gibbs, kneels down as she picks up some wood to store for her stove.

George Gibbs (Drew Dewulf) is joined by his sister Rebecca Gibbs (Kali Findley) at his window one night as they look at the moon.

Jared James, who played the role of Editor Webb, tries to explain to his daughter, Emily Webb (Caitria Clark), how wonderful marriage is.

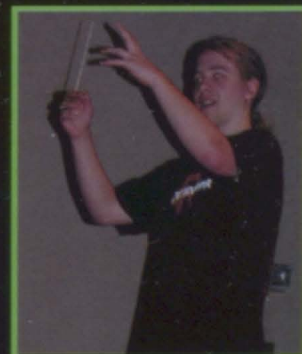

Jocelyn Buchler stands to give one of her strong opinions as she took on the role of Mrs. Soames, a loud and outspoken woman.

Drew North did a good job of taking on the role of Professor Willard as he stumbled on to the stage to assist the Stage Manager, (Libby) in explaining to the audience some of the specific details of Grover's Corners.

Kevin Bear, who was Howie Newsom, the milkman, makes a trip to the Gibbs' household to drop off their milk for the day.

David Uhlenhake played the drunken choirmaster, Simon Stimson. Here, he stands on stage to conduct the women's choir rehearsal.

Mallory Perry rests after playing tag football.

STUDENT COUNCIL

Eric McEwen shoots and misses while shooting hoops with Student Council members.

Eric McEwen catches the football thrown by Mr. Hollenbaugh.

Sarah Phillips and Sarah Seiler try to avoid being run over by a team member.

As the year comes to a close, student council continued to work hard addressing issues students had concerns with. Academic Assist's meeting time will be moved from meeting in between 6th and 7th period to meeting before or after lunch respectively. Many of the issues students wanted addressed such as food choices for lunch, and changes in study table guidelines were put on hold, and will be addressed by next year's student council members along with the new principal. In the end, this year's student council proved it could be a changing force in student policies concerning the students attending the middle and high school.

Ending the year on a positive note, student council celebrated with an afternoon at the park with Mr. Hollenbaugh. They ate lunch together and enjoyed the afternoon at the local park.

Mr. Hollenbaugh and Mrs. Miller, advisors, want to congratulate student council on a job well done. Together we can be an active voice that brings good changes to North Baltimore Middle and High School.

The students gathered in the middle of the gym to participate in a cheer.

Middle School students showed off their school spirit on Jersey Day.

Matt Phillips brought the short shorts and head band back from the 80's to NB. High on Rock and Roll Day.

Spring was a very busy time for MAL Leadership. They sponsored a Spring Spirit Week for the Middle and High School students. They had Rock and Roll Day, Napoleon Dynamite Day, Jersey Day. They also sponsored a Dollar Dance, in which students could get out of their 7th and 8th period classes if they had a C or better and payed one dollar per class to attend. Many students participated in dancing, shooting hoops, playing cards and just taking the time to talk with their friends.

Along with all of that, MAL Leadership held a Kiss-the-Pig Contest in which students had the chance to see an administrator kiss a pig that was brought in. After a weeks worth of raising money, Mr. Martin Zamudio was crowned with the honors of kissing the pig. With the money raised throughout the year, the group gave a $400 book scholarship ($100/year for 4 years) to a selected senior. Seniors competed for the scholarship by writing an essay about their participation in school sports and how it has helped them in high school. Vanessa Gazarek was awarded the book scholarship at the Senior Awards which was held at the end of May.

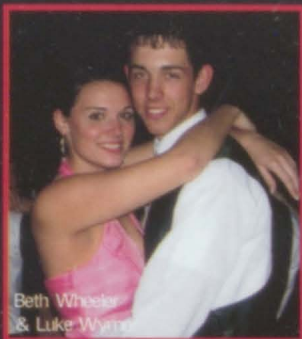

Jose Alvarez, Jenna Swartz, Baley Delancy, Alyssa Tellez, Ryan Herringshaw and Heather King showed off their "nerdy" side on Napoleon Dynamite Day.

Brittney Trevino, Robbie Hamlin, Aryn Bucher, Troy Rayle, Brittney Espen, and Heather King showed off their school spirit on Jersey Day.

Saturday, April 23, 2005, was a cold, brisk and snowy day, which made the day dreary. Most NB high school girls were busy getting their hair and nails done and the guys were making final preparations for the evening. However the prom committee had to help finish setting up the decorations, and continued working from the night before. Before they knew it they too had to leave to get ready for the evenings festivities. At 7 p.m. Junior and Senior parents viewed the ballroom and participated as "paparazzi" as "the stars" began to arrive and walk the red carpet. Each of the couples were announced as they made their way into the ballroom while the paparazzi took pictures and cheered. As students followed the red carpet to enter the ballroom, they walked through a tunnel that paved a way to the dance floor with the Hollywood Hills as a backdrop. Students seemed to have a blast taking photographs with the cardboard cutout stars such as Marilyn Monroe, James Dean, and Michael Jordan. As they talked with friends, and enjoyed the desserts, they took more pictures, and danced the night away. One dance highlight of the evening was Mr. Hollenbaugh dancing with students to "Brick House". King and Queen were voted on by the students and announced at 11:15 p.m. Brandon Meyer and Mallory Perry took the reigns for Prom King and Queen with Brandon sporting a red jacket with black pants, and Mallory wearing a gold, halter-top dress. Several area businesses donated funds to help finance After-Prom which was held at the BGSU Recreation Center from midnight till 4 a.m. Students enjoyed swimming, volleyball, poker, and rock wall climbing. Everyone who attended won a prize(s).
